- Above 1100px main has a media query to center align the pic and content
- Nav bar has justify-conterit: space-between to allow the nav links to be right justified and the logo to always be on the left. The logo will always link to index.html.

Wireframes - About page

- Info / content section has a flex: 1 above 900px so it will fill the main container and the contact container will wrap to the left to make use of the available width on the page
- Profile pic is Flex: 1 so it takes up the full width of main.

Previous Work

For the last 12 years I'v worked as a Satellite Link opeartor and camerman at Network TEN. I had a proven history of creating and delivering high-quality content to strict deadlines, and I am experienced in many creative and technical aspects of production including shooting, lighting, satellite uplinking and RF transmission. As news gatheres we were often thrust into high pressure situations in unfamiliar environments including major bushfires. floods and other situations where emotions are high. Over the years in that job I developed skills that allow me to think fast and on the fly, adapt to changing conditions and learn how to triage and prioritise activities under pressure.

From media to tech

I completed a Bachelor of Information Systems when I first left school. Life took and in another direction after graduating and and then moved into live television. Over the last year, during covid lockdowns, I coding again and found myself engrosed and energised with learning again. I continued my own self learning via The continued my own self learning via The series i purchased call Web. Dev. Simplified and JavaScript Simplified.

My Wife is a project mahager at a tech startup. A few of her developers had be no students at Coder Academy so she suggested the course to me. I decided to resign from my job and dive in head first for a carrer change!

Interests

Love being nature whether its the ocean or the mountains. Iv been surfing for ove 20 years and have recently discovered folling and have fallen in love with a new way to enjoy the ocean. Projects

Check out the projects I have recently completed

Over the last few months i've been teaching myself to code and have been working through a few projects on different websites. The projects below have come from two websites, The Odin Project and Front-end Mentor

Going through the material on The Odin Project has allowed me to gain good foundational skills in HTML, CSS and JavaScript, Front-end Mentor has been particularly good in allowing me to learn the skills of looking at a front-end mockup and working out how to create that page. I was only using the free version i didnt have access to the Figma documentation with the exact deatils of eachg project. I feel though that this was good practice in learning to look at deisgns and figruing out by eye how to distance different elements and adjust font sizes to make the HTML look as close as possible to the deison breif.

Frontend Mentor project

Advice Generator calling an API

This is a project i recently completed that calls an API and displays a random piece of advice. This is the first time i coded anything to call an API in JavaScript using promises. adapted the code from a totorial l watched.

The Odin Project Assignment

Etch-a-Sketch

This was one of the first projects i attempted in HTML, CSS and Javascript. I started it while wheni was stuck at home for two weeks with Covid. I found it really challenging and it took me quite some time but i learnt alot.

Frontend Mentor project

Article preview with tooltip

I found creating the layout on this page a little tricky. It contains a dynamic tool tip that will stay over the arrow when the browser is resized. I adapted the JavaScript from a tutorial on tooltips that i found on YouTube.

Frontend Mentor project

Signup Form with form validation

I found this project quite challenging. I had to do some research on Regex and validation techniques. The script will provide an error message to the user epending on whether the inputs are empty or invalid.

Graphic components used

hero image and project preview card

- Banner hero image.
 - Iv chosen a different image for each page.
 - It is a section tag with a background image. Iv put a span tag inside with an aria-label for the alt text
 - Background is styled from the global class hero-container. Has a height of 50vw and max height of 300px.
- Project preview card.
 - Flex wrap with max with of 300px
 - Contains preview image, 2 subheadings and content and 2 links.
 - The links are in a flexed nav element so they can be positioned.
